MANCHESTER TOWN RECORDS FROM 1636 TO 1736.

At the Annual Town Meeting held March 19, 1889, the Town Clerk was authorized to copy and cause to be printed the early records of the Town. A committee of three was also appointed to coöperate with him in this work. The earliest mention of the settlement of Manchester is to be found in the Salem Records when grants of land were made from time to time as the applications received favorable action. It was thought best to incorporate these grants in this book as showing who were the earliest settlers. Our next source of information is what is known as the Second Book. This contains probably a portion of the first; as in the Third Book, compiled by Dr. E. W. Leach in 1836, it will be noticed that copies have been made of former grants and reference is made to the First Book. It seems reasonable to suppose that some one had collected scattered leaves and bound them together. There is a gap, however, between 1645 and 1658 we have no means of supplying. A correct transcript has been made of this book, and although nearly transparent from many years wear and portions of several pages missing yet sufficient remains to give a fairly correct idea of the original meaning. The dash indicates the words that are gone. The Third Book, while in the main easily read, has several pages almost illegible. The following extracts were taken from a communication by Wm. P. Upham written as an introductory to the Salem Records and are of interest as showing town government in its infancy.

"The interest which attaches to these ancient manuscript records is heightened when we consider how few were the 'plantations' then existing in the Massachusetts colony. In fact, they date back to the very time when towns, as such, came into existence. On the 3d of September, 1634, the General Court appointed a Committee, consisting of nine members, to set out the bounds of towns. At the same Court leave was granted to 'the inhabitants of Salem to keepe a markett weekely, on the fourth day of ye weeke, commonly called Wednesday.' On the 4th of March, 1635, and the 3d of March, 1636, special committees were appointed to set out the bounds between Salem and the adjoining towns. At a General Court held March 3, 1635–6, the following order was passed, which, as it is in fact the origin of the various and important powers ever since exercised by towns and will serve as an appropriate introduction to these records, is here given in full. 'Whereas particular towns have many things which concerne onely themselves, and the ordering of their own affairs and disposing of business in their own town, it is therefore ordered, that the freemen of every town or the major part of them shall alone have power to dispose of their own lands, and woods, with all the privileges and appurtenances of the said towns, to grant lots, and make such orders as may concern the well ordering of their own towns not repugnant to the laws and orders here established by the General Court; as also to lay mulcts and penalties for the breach of these orders, and to levy and distrain the same, not exceeding the sum of XX^s; also to choose their own particular officers as, constables, surveyors for the highways, and the like; and because much business is like to ensue to the constables of several towns, by reason they are to make distresses, and gather fines, therefore that every town shall have two constables, where there is need, that so their office may not be a burthen unto them, and they may attend more carefully upon the discharge of their office, for which they shalbe liable to give their accompts to this Court when they shalbe called thereunto.' BOOKE WILLIAM.

Previous to 1752 the legal year began on the 25th of March, which was called the first month, April the second, May the third month, and so on, January being called the eleventh and February the twelfth. Therefore "March 12, 1636" or "1636-7" in records previous to 1752 would be in modern reckoning, March 12, 1637. And so of any date between Jan. 1st and March 25th.

SECOND BOOK OF RECORDS.
